

Care Plan for *****

Behavioural Dx: Dog has territorial aggression as evidence by biting and barking at 'potential' treats near or on perceived territory. Also is 'overly' protective over son and mother (but mostly mother). re-directed Aggression also noted when dog nipped owner on the leg. Lastly fear/nervousness noted with dog related to poor socialization before 6 weeks.

Intervention:

Day 5:

0800- Taken out for washroom with other dogs and played outside. (still isolates self most of time, but is starting to play with other dogs)

0815-0830-  ate meal with other dogs. (put her head down on her own)

0830-0900- Basic obedience training (no difficulties noted)

0900-1100- nap/play time (Does not get snappy with other dogs, but keeps distance for most of time)

1030-1100- Small car ride around block (no shaking noted)

1100-1145-play time/washroom

1145-1200- basic obedience training (Much more controlled with training then when first arrived)

1200-1300- dogs resting (placed her with other dogs while sleeping)

1300-1330- played with other dogs

1500- practiced ringing the doorbell and knocking on door with staff and had  wait while person was coming in. (Did very well, but small whining noted. Also stayed on couch and did not attack people)

1700- Children were invited over to see how she would interact. She stayed away from them and would not move close. She also did not bark or growl at them. But if kids got within 4-5 feet of her she would sometimes snap without warning.

1900- prepared and fed dinner to dog

2000- took  to Pet land to be fitted for muzzle also she did very well in environment and did not growl or snap at anyone who went to pet her.

Evaluation:

Day 5:  has improved drastically over the past five days and continues to become more confident around people and dogs. She does not attack or bark at people when entering the home and stays in her designated area. She still snaps at times if new people come within 4-5 feet of her. Therefore I recommend that when socializing with new guests that she wears a muzzle for peoples safety. Also the muzzle will make the owners and guests feel more calm. Which in turn will create a more calm environment making  feel relaxed.
